Message from "THE GOLDEN DENSITY"

Mortals bound in density. Who would be the cause, who would bide my time. The tree of thee in me stops not its growth. Though my parts would add to my divisions, my faceless cosmic clock records no time. For man is not a cause but rather a result of me. For I alone am cause of things to be. And though thou mortal man would wind my clock of destiny, and set the powder keg of destruction at my feet....How can he know the woe? For I alone am cause and man is the result of me, bound to destiny. And in destruction bent reverses course and all the Light spent in his being is hidden by the curtain of ignorance drawn before me. Though I, alone am cause, my wrath is not aroused. I tear the shroud, I bring man back through birth within the Light and test my right expressed in progression of my parts.

I write the drama, man plays the fool, then I applaud and make the tool sharper to my cause through experienced results. Man cannot set my clock for I alone can read the time of my Eternity. And so it is: I set the stage: I play the parts; I cause the curtain to come down while man sits in the audience of My Universe....applauding not knowing why.

PYRAMID AT GIZEH

Query pertaining to the building of the pyramid at Gizeh.

The pyramid was not built by dragging blocks up an incline. It was constructed by the Masters of Atlantis for the coming generations of man to use, through powers and wisdom attained to at the height of their civilization. They used the Forces of Light to cut the blocks and to reduce the specific gravity of their mass. And they used ships, similar to your so-called "Saucers", to lift the finished blocks from the quarry and deposit them in layers in the exact pattern of the directional "A", "B" and "G" cross lines of force. This accounts for the exactness in measurement over these large dimensions.

OAHSPE AND THE FLYING SAUCERS

By Charles W. Skilling, former Research Engineer on Radar, Atomic energy, and Space Craft.

We people who are living on Earth in 1953 are apt to look upon the phenomena known as Flying Saucers, as being something new, mysterious, and strictly modern. This is understandable since it was only since 1947 that the subject has been before the public in the newspapers and magazines.

Let us now realize that the Earth is only one small inhabited planet. Throughout this galaxy there are millions of suns. Many of these other suns have one or several inhabited planets each. Our astronomers now admit the probability of this. Numerous contacts with the persons who operate these space craft verify this beyond the possibility of any further doubt. I am not offering any arguments to bolster an already known fact.

I am impressed however, with the frequency with which space craft are mentioned in the book known as Oahspe. This book was first copyrighted in 1882. All throughout its 800 pages of history of the earth and her heavens and of outer space are the space ships mentioned and described. They are called aerro ships, fire ships, airavagnas, etc.

Here is a quote from Oahspe, page 317; "Here course the thousands of excursionists from the measureless regions of the Huan lights, where are to be seen a million varieties of firs ships, of sizes from ten miles across to the breadth of a world, in unceasing travel, in tens of thousands of directions, onward in their ways, every several one a history of millions of souls, and every soul rich in the knowledge of thousands of worlds."

What an utterly grand concept! Even our science-fiction writers have not come up with anything so grand and so beautiful.

Believe me, if you are seriously interested in making a study of these space craft and of our brothers from outer space, I would recommend two things. First, by all means read the current literature on the subjects, Scully, Kehoe, Adamiski, Van Tassel, Arnold, Angelucci, and others. From an integrated composite of all of this there emerges a nebulous pattern. Second, get the book called Oahspe. (New Age Pub. Co., Los Angeles, Calif.) From this the nebulous pattern becomes much clearer and we perceive where we and the saucers both stand in the over all scheme of Universal Government. Take it from here, my friends, and you will forever bless the day you started.

SCHUMA ON EVOLUTION

Reprint from the "Proceedings of the College of Universal Wisdom" volume 1, Number 2. George W. Van Tassel, director. Theodore Berger, editor. P. C. Box 45, Joshua Tree, California.

I have no doubt that you have wondered where you were before you came through birth upon this planet. Multitudinous theories have been advanced by many of your people.

I tell you, "You have always been and always shall be."

Man did not evolve from the lower animals. The reason man has stooped to believe the theory that man evolved from monkeys, is because he is being controlled by his five animal senses.

Any one who lives by the light of the Living Spirit within, would never concede to such a belief for a moment.

Man was created as man in space, in perfect physical image and countenance.

Man advances through cycles and phases and levels throughout eternal time. He is given the controlling right to determine his progression by the Creator.

Every individual being has a destiny. Eternity extends forever, backwards and forward from the time you hear this word, or from present to past or future.

Man in the decline, in physical manifestation, from the light controlled perfection of his original creation, has nearly reached a state where the two higher senses have become dormant.

Man's inner growth depends upon his ability to use the higher senses. These are the sense of thought and the sense of being, the eternal consciousness of individuality.

Man acting solely on his five lower senses, can only record events as they happen and file them as history after they have occurred.

With the development of the master sense of being, man can record conditions before they happen and thereby avoid events that would tend to retard his evolution.

Each one has a destiny. Yours is the birth right to determine your own progression.

ETONYA, LAND OF BANDED BEAUTY

*****

By Geo. H. Williamson

Etonya, land of banded beauty
Adee, Etonya, Capitol Adee
From Etonya, land of banded forested beauty.

We say to you:
Blackened temple, blackened door
that man says, "There will be no more."
But the cross that is above it
Golden pointing to the Father
Is a symbol that will live.
Man has taken this true thing,
And added to it his own ring.
Moulded, sculptured, some with clay
have fashioned this,
Some of granite sculptured this
Some is firm, some is weak,
But man's needs it cannot meet.
The Father provided, men divided
Thus we have one body, many heads.
This results in a thing but dead,
Except what the Father himself hath said.
But, the Father himself hath said;
"The truth, yesterday, today and forever,
It can never be removed by men, who would sever it. There is not a church of building blocks, but only that, which will look within itself, Man's Hearts." The Father provided, men divided.
The truth remains, the other of man's device. But His Word is as a star, burning fiercely, burning brightly, burning rightly, burning white.
The other, made of hands of clay, the buildings made of clay by hands of clay, to return another day. We do not know where, when, or how, the point is now! NOW!
To the sky, where men longed to fly, since the beginning. Where it caught us too close to the sun, for fun for him to prove a world beyond, his ego could attain. Oh! Alas! How he plummets, how he falls. A man must discard, but regard the Father's will, in the stillness. Look up above the clay and ashes which remain, from the test of fire which detains. Oh poor man, that thou art, looking to things of stone, things of wood, things of statue made, things of gory, blood and hoary. Be not depressed, or repressed, not to incense filling, pungent sweet, not to dome or crest, but arrest the Truth that comes to the Father's sons, to this house of yours, which has always been for all.
Greetings from the people of Adee, Capitol of Jupiter. This planet sends to you in love to their brothers, casting away the abominable things that are man made. Manifestations final, manifestations, but when man from man alone constructs, it is a tottering weak thing, when constructed of clay by clay. How can it, but return to clay?
But when from the Father, it is Eternal and bright. It is a star! As veils of Venus hide her beauty, so has man hidden beauty by thing of clay.
He moulded, but, as veils are removed, so the light from within comes through every day. Striking a tot, not missing a jot, but nothing touching rot. It strikes every corner that before was in darkness. Now, the Light has come in, flooding now from the Father. The Father provides, man does not divide, for he needs not beads, temples grand, cathedrals absurd, chapels unheard! For the vast Expense, with Saturn as an alter thrust, through the dust ethereal, must support all just! Who will deny His Realm? His All? His Church? His One? His worship One? He provides, man must not divide!

WHAT MORE NEED BE SAID?

(Received from the "Within" of Joseph C. Bonner of Los Angeles, Calif., at 10 o'clock P. M. on Sat. Nov. 7, 1953.)

All Wise-men have stated,
 "I myself beheld DIVINE BEING!
 It revealed to me, Everything!"
 What more need be said?

To everyone there comes a time when one arrives at a point in consciousness where he himself chooses to cease meandering about this Godless Wilderness he knows as "Mortal Existence." He has learned for the first moment in his long life, that he has never lived! He has been but a prisoner in this Stone Forest built by his own cold, calculating intellect, where-in he himself had become enmeshed, and in realizing it he had bitterly denounced everyone but himself as the Cause of his Plight!

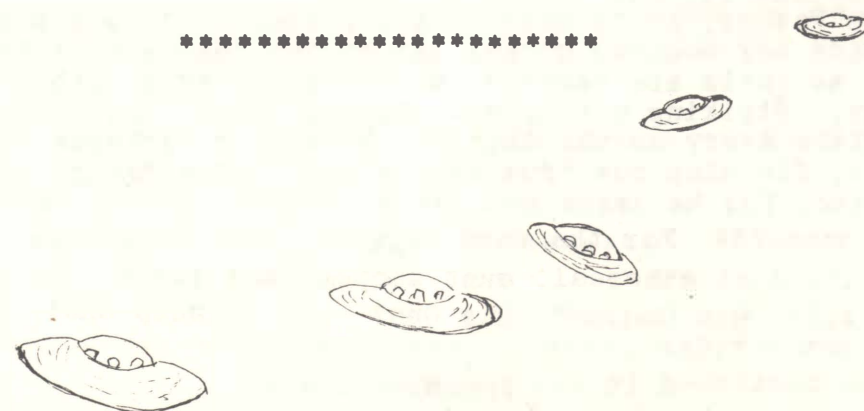

He looks back into the past with amazement at his futile attempts to escape by harboring material possessions; catering to the whims of a society that is swayed from one form of emotional drunkenness to another, never once sober. And then in desperation he renounces all! Substituting his time, killing joys for holier escapes in some etherial vistas of sublime imaginings. Yet the fruit of this is only to be thrust back by some Unfathomable Force, until helpless, fatigued, he falls prostrate before the feet of his own god-made images!

At long last, mind, facing itself and admitting failure surrenders to That...in the Seeker which is both Splendorous and Immortal. He who was Vanquished is now the Victor...to trod the starry heavens..... A Sky-Walker...along the Corridors of Timelessness, a MAN! A true Son of GOD!

LETTERS TO THE EDITORFrom an Iowa School Teacher:

1. They are there, because so many people have seen them, photographed them, and traced them on radar.
2. They aren't ours, or our jets wouldn't chase them.
3. They aren't Gorgeous Georges, or the U. S. would be a Russian province.
4. So, I conclude the best possible explanation is extra-terrestrial Space Ships.
5. Life as we know it might be better supported on planets of other stars than on other planets of our system, but with the limitations of our knowledge in regard to an interstellar faster than light drive, it seems more logical to us they would originate in our Solar System.
6. Mars seems to be the best possibility, with Venus a close second. But we never know.....!

From a lady in Los Angeles, California:

"Interplanetary News" magazine is of great spiritual and scientific value and therefore has my full support.

The idea of Joshua Tree, California, being considered for a World-Spaceship Station as well as stations in other parts of the earth is extremely gratifying as the energy and resources of our world must, at a very early date if we are to survive this critical period of adjustment, be turned in the direction of greater spiritual expression to meet the demands of the dawning New Age.

From a lady in Redondo Beach, California:

Miss Johnston:

First, I want to tell you that your first edition of "Interplanetary News", is truly a "Priceless Gem". May God bless you in your work and speed you with His Infinite Light!

From a Gentleman in New York City, New York:

Dear Miss Johnston:

Enclosed find 50 cents. Please send me a Space Ship!
